The chart displays 10 systems of musical notation, each consisting of a staff with a red line. The notation includes various musical symbols, including notes, accidentals (sharps, flats, naturals), and fingerings (numbers 1, 2, 3, 8, 10). The systems are arranged in a vertical sequence, with some systems featuring multiple staves. The notation is complex, with many notes and accidentals, and is designed to be read from left to right. The chart is a technical document for a specific musical instrument, likely a piano or organ, and is intended to provide a detailed fingering guide for a specific piece of music.
